THE LEGEND

WEEQUAHIC HIGH SCHOOL

NEWARK, NEW JERSEY

ABSTRACT

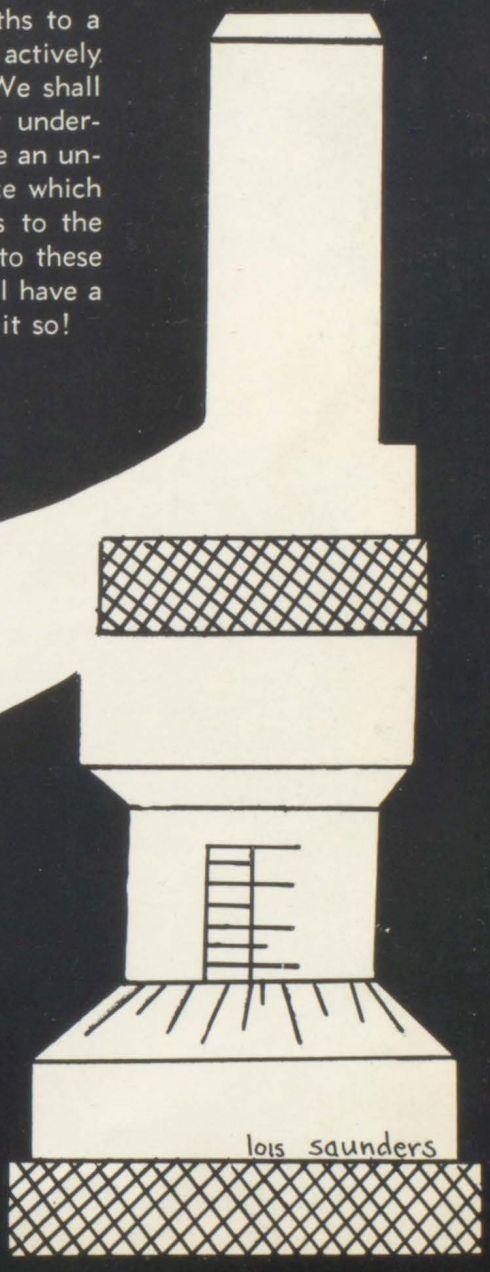

Most observers agree that the first step in the conquest of the universe is the establishment of a space platform several thousand miles above the earth. We, the graduating students, have reached this space-platform stage in our lives and are ready to depart into the void. Behind us are twelve years of study and training which have been gradually intensified so that we can now withstand the intense pressure and strife of the future. Ahead lies interplanetary conquest, supersonic speed, and time travel. We face these challenges and their accompanying hazards with a determination to succeed and to establish our position in space.

Our training has been ideological as well as materialistic. In order to conquer space, we must first conquer ourselves. Men must be made to realize that the quarrels for power and prestige which have dominated our world's history are wasteful, shameful, and suicidal. As future citizens, we are faced with two alternatives: peace, prosperity and progress, or war, waste and annihilation. Pure logic should dictate our choice. We must establish that elusive world peace. Then and only then will the myriad worlds which surround us be opened, and everyone benefit from the knowledge and resources of a peaceful world in a peaceful universe.

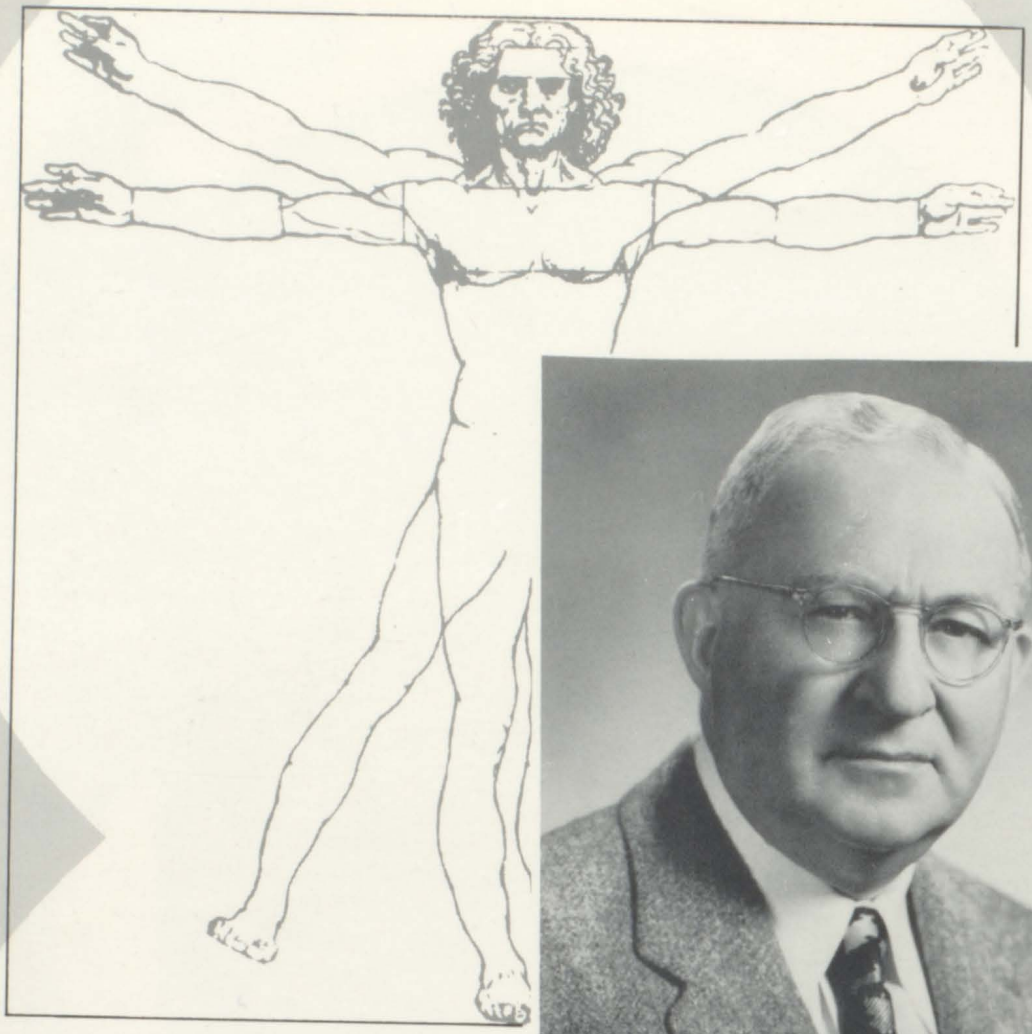

We, the new generation, dedicate ourselves to the task of building a better, tranquil tomorrow. From the vast space in life occupied by doubt and insecurity we will strive to carve a utopia governed by practical morality and idealism.

We dedicate ourselves to the labor of constructing new highways leading to peace, prosperity and a bright future world. Our tools will be the knowledge life affords us. Brotherhood, the most binding force in life, will be used in place of mortar.

Stone by stone we will build these paths to a better world, by supporting the U. N. and by actively participating in all governmental affairs. We shall toil to obtain more knowledge and better understanding in human relations. We shall wage an unending battle to eradicate prejudice, a force which impedes the construction of the highways to the new future world. We dedicate ourselves to these things as the citizens of tomorrow. We will have a better tomorrow only if we ourselves make it so!

Michael Conovitz

PRINCIPAL

To the Class of January 1954:

The telescope has opened up a sublime vista of worlds upon worlds extending far out into infinite space. The microscope and the electronic microscope have uncovered an infinite world of living organisms and inert matter hitherto not visible to the naked eye.

The world of the human mind is equally diverse and infinite in scope. As we observe the growth of scientific knowledge during the 5000 years of recorded history, and as we note the vast and evergrowing variety of artistic expression, we arrive at the inevitable conclusion that there are still many excitingly new forms of art with which to experiment.

The mental horizon like the physical horizon is still far away. The frontiers of science and art still lie ahead. There still is great work to be done by the young in spirit, the daring in imagination, and the courageous of heart!

4A CLASS ADVISER

Dear Mr. Epstein:

As we leave Weequahic High School now, the time has come for us to express verbally all that you have meant to us these past four years.

You've watched over us as a shepherd watches his flock, and often we were a restless flock. You've helped us over the bumps that so often threatened to throw us off the right path. But we've survived these four years thanks to you.

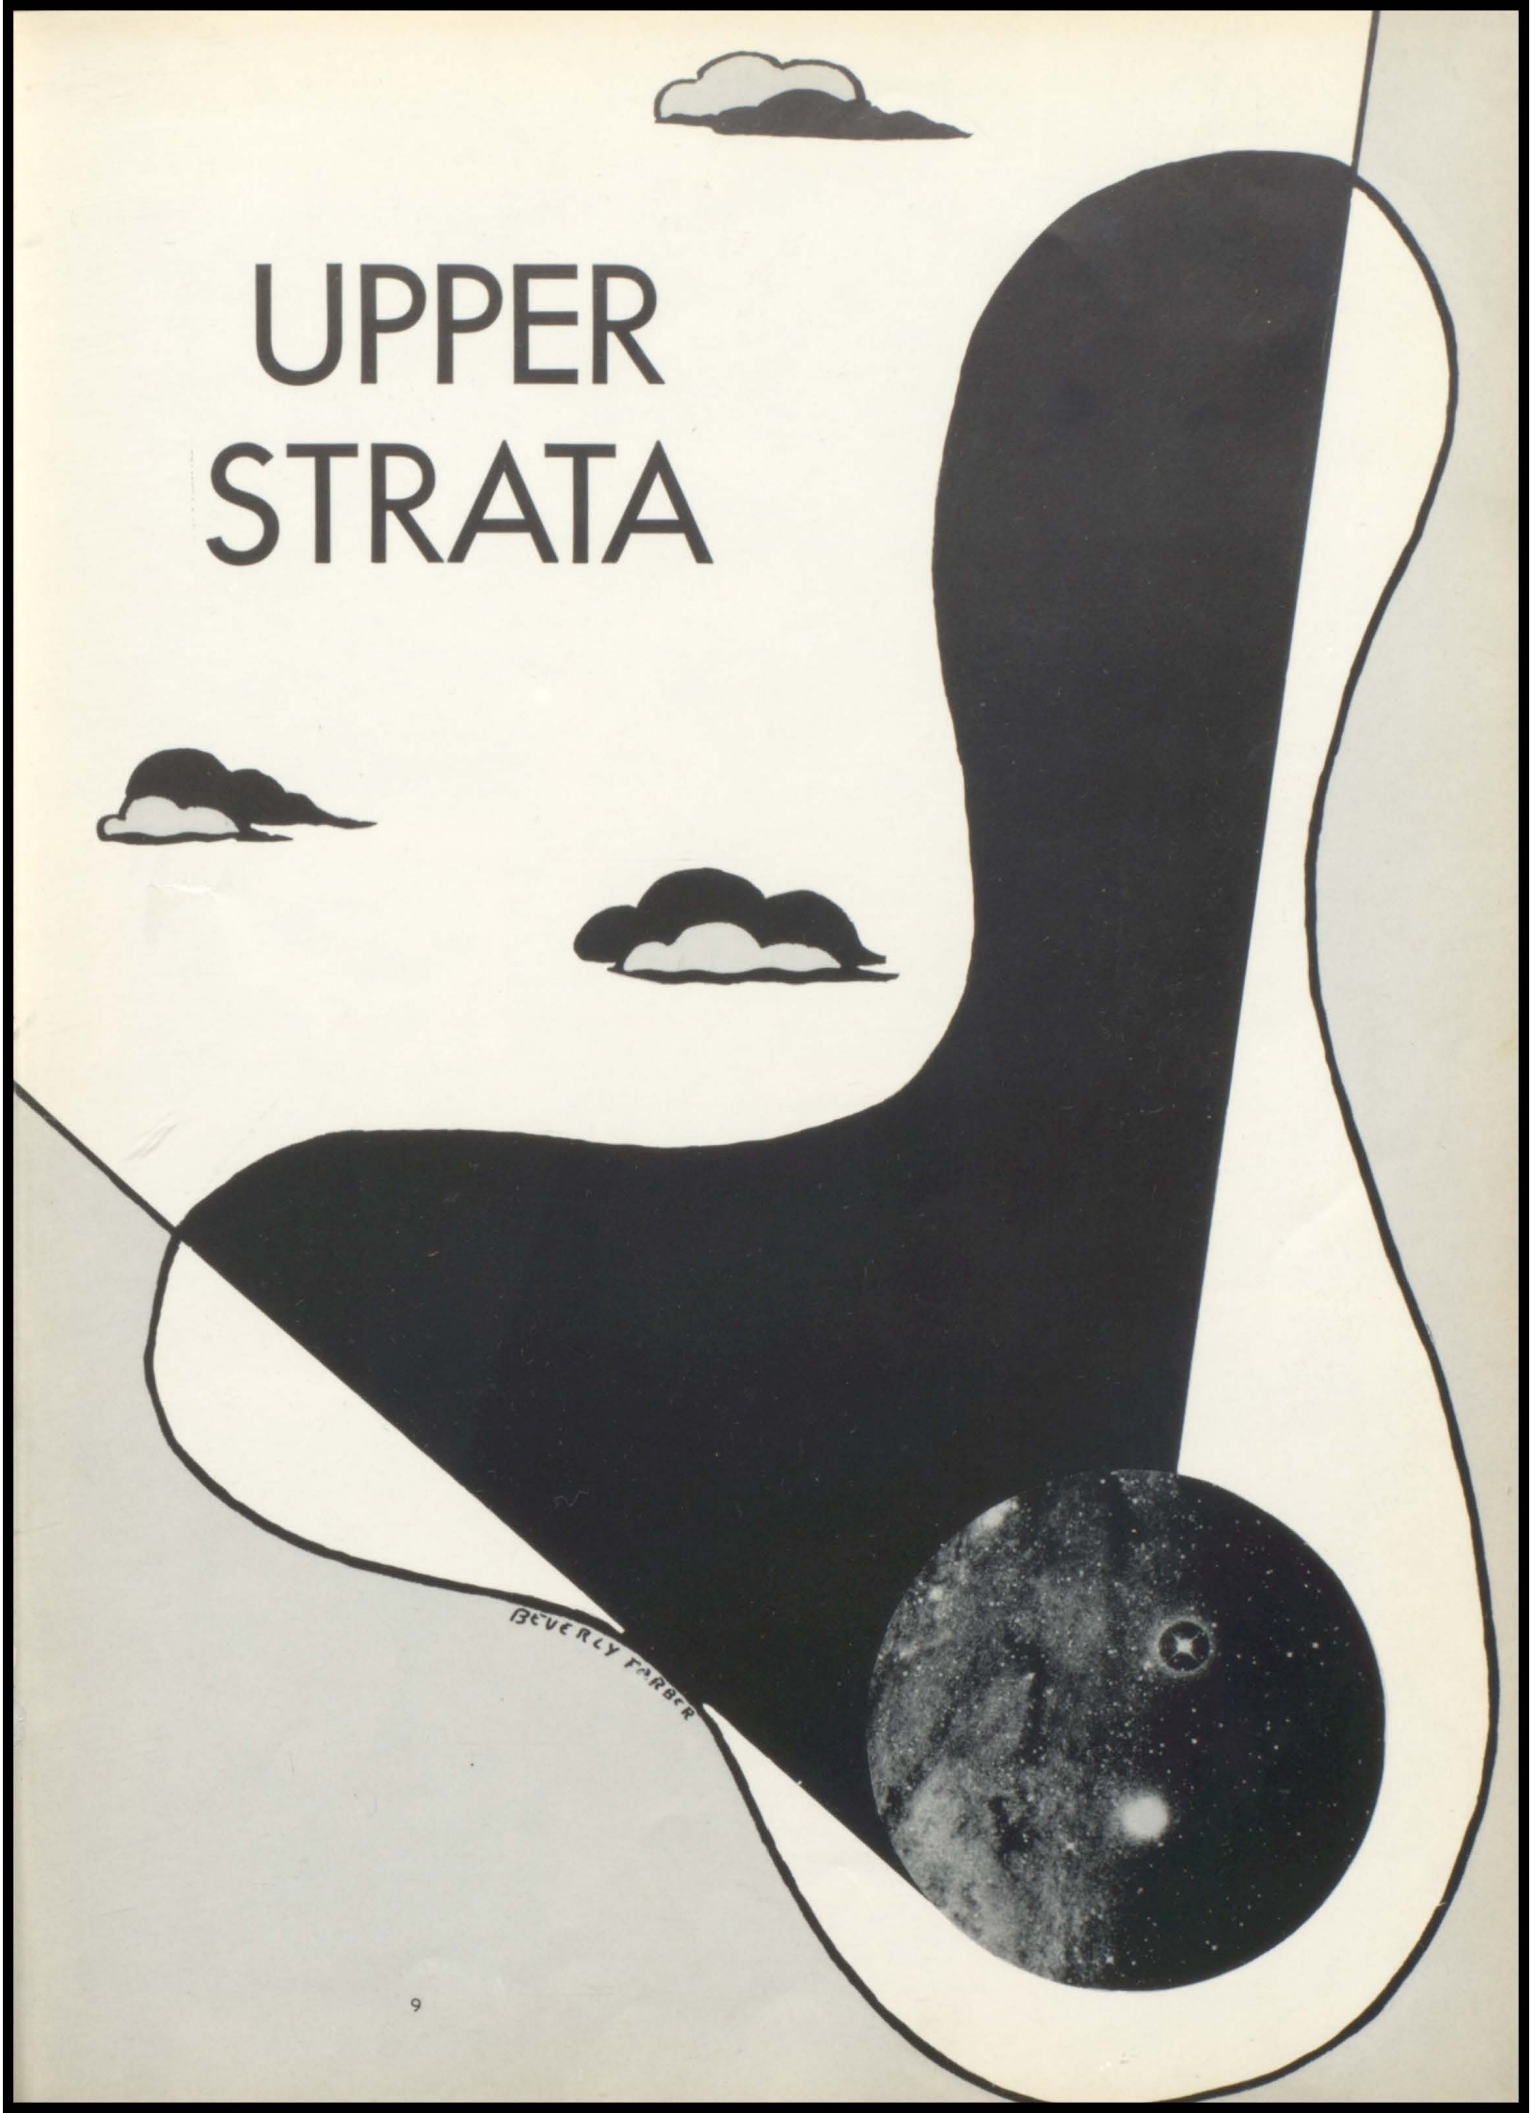

Your patience and understanding when we needed a friend, your helpfulness and time when we needed inspiration, will never be forgotten.

Thanks, Mr. Epstein, for everything.

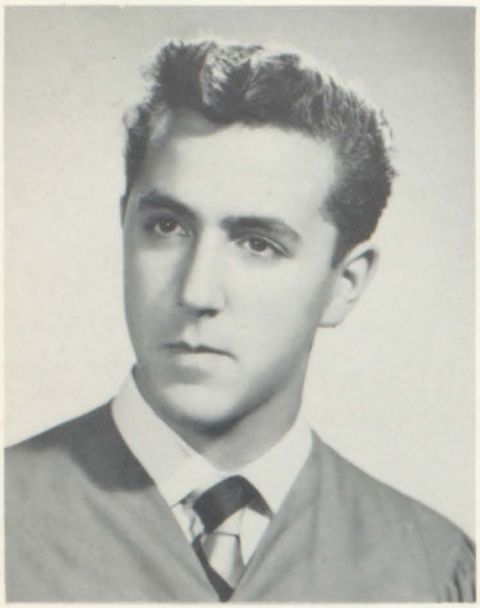

Fondly,

Class of January, 1954

Lustig's 'Lectrons

HOMEROOM 1

If you will enter the noted galaxy
You'll discover the way our school day's begun.
Mr. Lustig, our controller, opens the door.
The quiet that reigned is present no more.
Herbert Kramer is the first to make contact,
Others arrive and all attention they distract.
At first we find that all is confusion,
Of homework papers there is great diffusion.
Rochelle Goldman, Sandra Morris, and Adele Kotler are in a huddle.
Twirling's the subject, the conversation's a muddle.
Asriel Strip, Florence Wexlin, and Ann Tanzer are competing with them.
It seems that nobody has the problems for chem.
Rhoda Sosnow and June Goldstein add French to the atmosphere.
Barry Seidel and Sheila Chasen lend them a helping ear.
Myrna Penchansky and Barbara Tischler have notes to compare.
Two live wires connect and sparks fill the air.
Marilyn Berger and Barbara Fechtner have lots to say.
Judy Schenkel, Judy Polonsky, and Rita Cassell tune in: it's the gossip of the day!
The clamor grows higher and higher,
Everything seems to have gone hay-wire.
Elaine Wexler, Leona Curtis, and Merle Wasserman add a different tint.
They're sitting quietly, could it be a hint?
Judy Saltin is tapping important wires.
I think it's prom information that she desires.
Jerry Miller and Herbert Masters can't make a connection.
Nothing gets done, they're no exception.
Marvin Denburg gives his political views.
The result, Steven Berney and Irwin Horowitz are versed in the news.
The bell will ring, after the hand makes one more trip,
And Donald Bobrow makes it again without going for a late slip.
Then Mr. Lustig pulls the switch
And all returns to an orderly pitch.

Freidberg's Fliers

Going's On In Rocket Ship 209

B'rring!! The bell has rung. Captain Herby Slifer is up in front with the command, "Everybody get set, we're about to take off for the day."

His attractive young assistant, Betty Darling, stands ready to take the roll call. OOPS! Wait a second. Here come Jean Kruger, Gloria Weiss, and Natalie Washington clambering through the door. Whew! just made it.

There's still a big rumpus going on in Rocket Ship 209. Rochelle Elblonk and Bobbie Tucker are practicing for the Robet Rabbit Bubble Gum Contest. Richie Nemerson is—of all things—opening the windows!! Jerry Shumsky, Richard Krickus, and Andy Kowitski are still on the look out for homework answers. And above it all Marilyn Goldstein and Bunny Davis' voices can be heard ringing out with laughter; while Fran Kurtz, Marilyn Gottlieb, Allen Hershdorfer, and Lorrie Billow are busy studying so as not to miss the Special Space Honor Roll this month.

And here is Donny Hoffman with that far-away look in his eyes. I wonder of whom he's thinking? Sandy Warhaftig is busy at the video mirror rearranging her long silky brown hair. Sandy Hershbain's still firing away about the privileges of banking, while Marion Frish and Norma Fish and Anna Kaplowitz are quietly sitting by taking it all in .

Of course Joel Wasserman and Stevie Schwarz are busy studying for their big space tests coming up in the future.

Bong! There goes the second bell. Time to take off for other planetoids, and Marv Weisman, Gene Heller, Leonard Chill and Larry Harris are dashing for the door.

Well, folks, that's all for now. See you later on the moon.

Marger's Moonbeams

Slowly the ship glided to a stop. In a few seconds the door opens and the leader of the Moonbeams, Marv Buccino, alights. He is followed by his co-pilot, Maxine Schachter. These two have guided the moon rocket 215 safely to the end of its journey. Slowly the passengers gleam from the ship. Checking them as they leave is the "Record Keeper," Maxine Bier, who has kept traces of all the passengers through their three-year course. Also standing by is Lenore Kugel who made sure that the group finances were safe.

As the crowd-beams begin to disperse, we detect the voices of Arlene Friedman and Joan Jarman high above the crowd, discussing the "man" situation on the moon. In one corner Barbara Brenner and Sheila Gietter are seen frantically trying to contact their own private stars somewhere in the halls of N. Y. U. and N. C. E., respectively. Sheldon Geller can be spotted on a meteorite surrounded by Warren Glayder and Harry Schachtel, all of whom are discussing their conquests before leaving the earth.

As we continue on through the crowd, we hear pals Ben Saunders and Jerome Rosenstock discussing that "crazy moon" lingo! Also seen leaving the rocketship is Laura Miscioscia, who is giving a lecture on the correct spelling and pronunciation of her last name. There is Larry Mandell who can never be overlooked on any planet because of his carrot top. Floating around on college applications are Helene Muskat and Myron Morris, awaiting a radiogram from Cornell and Fairley Dickinson. OOOPs! There is one we nearly missed seeing, Louis Schaeffer, pondering over the question of which of the moon squadrons to join. Elaine Snyder is working hard trying to gather all of the money to give to the "Moon-U-Met" agent. High on a moonbeam all her own can be seen the scholar of the group, Lois Roseman, who is proud to be a member of the lunar honor society. Up at the front of the crowd so as not to be overlooked, is Lenore Siegel, one of the moon-council members.

Up here in the stratosphere there is one person who should be at home in all this height is Ellen High. As we glance back we see Sheila Nurin join the group which is trying to contact its earth men, Sheila's being at Temple University.

Frances Ostrin is quietly explaining moon life after being briefed by her brother who is an instructor on earth. Dorothy Kirkwood and Dorothy Jerusky are slyly adding two more "Dots" to the ones already in the sky.

Phyllis Klein is seen laughingly recalling her life on Earth. While Sandy Liebenhaut is attempting to contact friends on another planet, Enid Cole looks for another space ship making flight to the moon.

At the end of the crowd is Lois Acker, one person needing no moonbeams as she floats on the beams of the diamond she is going to receive now that she has reached her destination.

As all eyes twinkle toward the ship we see our guardian angel, Blanche Marger, sparkling forward to join our moon society. Now that our ship has landed, passengers and crew hope for a life in the future will be just as pleasant as life in the old orbit.

Conrad's Comets

Glowing brightly in cometarium 309 are luminous heavenly bodies known as comets. Whereas most comets are irregular in form (so says Webster) Squish Lavor and Marv Mayor hardly find irregularities in the form of Helen Kerrian. More interested in peering through the windows overlooking Aldine St., Larry Pass, Stuie Ginsburg and Burt Finkelstein use their comet-finders to inspect the Chevies and Pontiacs perched below. Arnold Pressman and Barry Gruber do their homework, racing the clock to finish before period one. Whirling about their orbits are Faith Blinder, Lois Saunders (paint brush in hand) and Ruth Krone (always on her toes) chattering incessantly, whiling away the minutes. Tip-toeing quietly out the door are Bernie Slamowitz and Norman Ades. Oh-Oh! Miss Conrad takes no chances with this hyperbolically-moving twosome and she therefore re-routes them back to their seats. Adding their honorable names to cometarium 309 are Bev Farber and Josephine Guttman both of whom are in the group of the top ten brightest comets, not forgetting to mention Roberta Blake who is up there also. Busily writing up her cometary is Helen Schenkel, star secretary of the class. Oops! She slipped out the door, but not before saluting as any lieutenant of the twirling squad would do, and she's off on more class business, no doubt. Wow! She's awful busy for only half a comet!

"Friendship, friendship, just a perfect blendship" Who? Why Marge Sigillito and Marion Vivona, of course. Sitting guard by the door is Roberta Blake ready to bop any invaders from space over the head with her trusty baton, Rah, Rah, Sis, Boom, Bah, Cometarium 309 Rah, Rah, Rah. Such an outstanding cheerleading captain as Flo Kaufman keeps the homeroom in high spirits. Counting his money (not really his—the classes; but he likes to think it's his) is Freddy Simon, class treasurer. Marty Bloom and Mathilda Blindt "awefully" review their chem notes. Edie Schaffer and Zena Weinberg discuss how things are done in 309 as compared with Edie's X 327. Finkel and Frank meander through the aisles ejecting their views upon the various groups about the room. Well, all are accounted for except Norman Karp and Jerry Sheitelman who are nowhere in sight. Oh! That's right—they're downstairs offering their musical talents to the little ones in the "B" assembly. And so, the tail of comet 309 comes in view as it moves faster and faster away from perihelion, encouraged by the engaging rays of sunshine emitted by Weequahic High School.

Martino's Martians

"A Strange Breed." That's what they call us. Why? Come along and see. Here's a gas mask, for when you enter the domain of Martino's Martians you never can tell what smell of gas will greet you. The Martians, of course, are impervious to all these horrible odors.

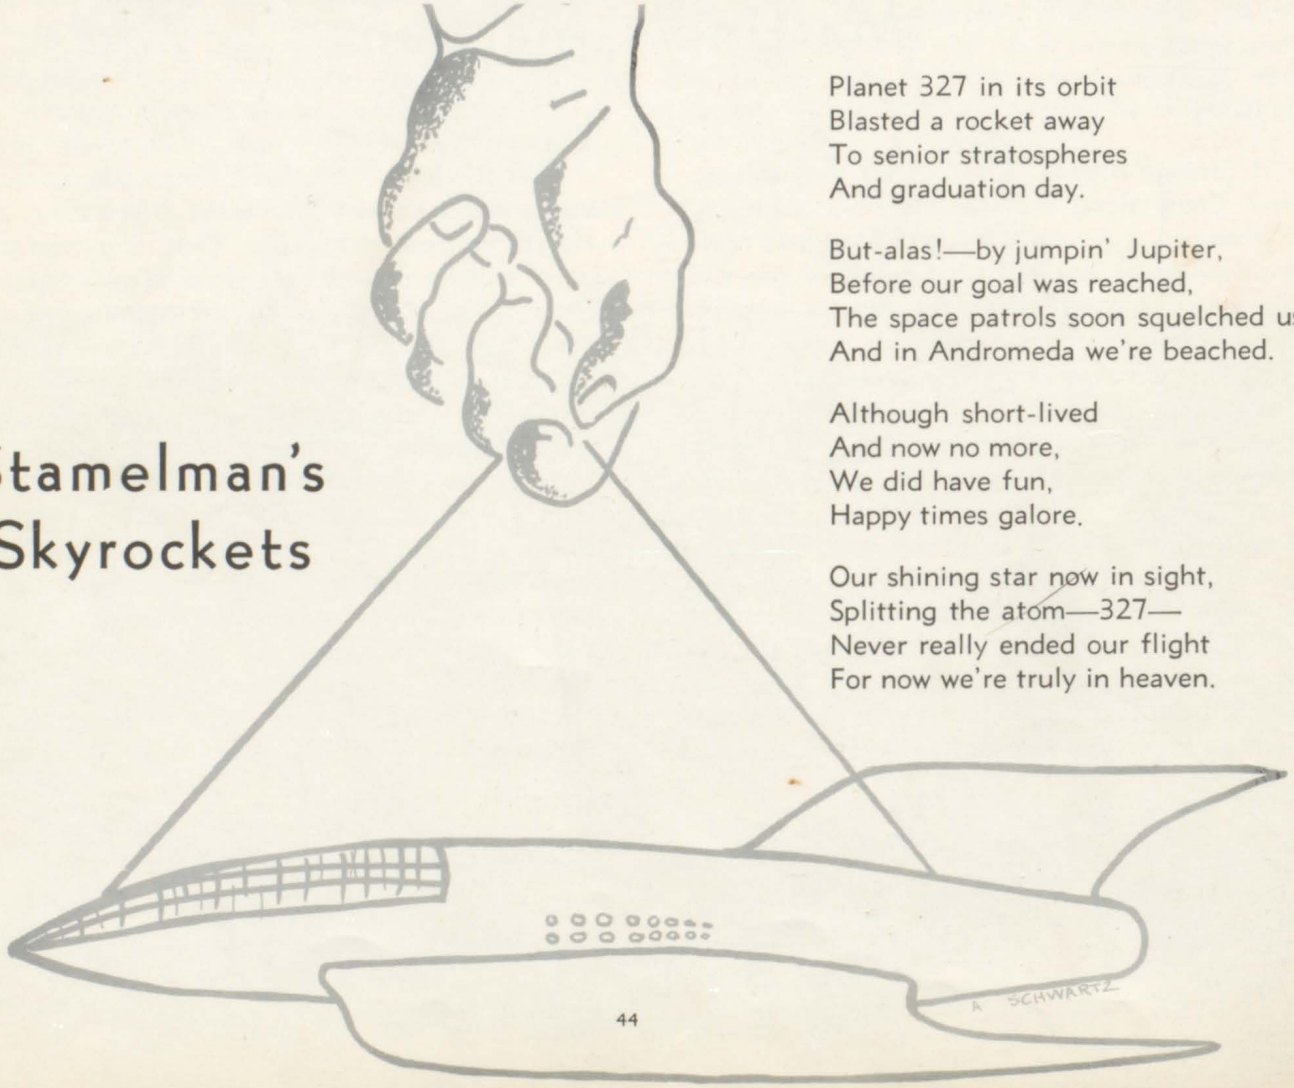

The first person you see upon entering is Myra Schwartz trying to do her homework. Gladys Levine is trying to distract her. Seymour Retsky enters with the weekly papers and soon his customers come in. Harold Binenstock and Irwin Keller soon are arguing about sports, while Cindy Rock and Arlyne Schwartz are talking about Friday Night. Flo Horn is getting "Calumet" orders and "Sis" Levine is collecting "Legend" ads. As the warning bell rings, Earle Meyer, Harvey Kemper and Ralph Lowenbach stroll in, breathless from their ride in the "Kempermobile."

Now the rush is on. Artie Rosen tries to work, but soon quits. Jerry Moskowitz, Ralph Zinn, and Harvey Felzenberg hurry in. Doris Heninger prepares to take attendance, while Wanda Propper, Sherry Willis, and Carole DiGiovanni, cram for their tests. Eunice Klein, Shirley Beim and Fran Adler are discussing their boy friends in far away places. Ira Feitel and Sylvio Cicalese discuss the latest drumbeat. Al Schachter just comes in before the bell. Now our hero's enter. Football stars Joe Brand and Larry Dinetz arrive just at the bell, and class president Charlie Bernhaut comes in late. Of course, he was on official class business. Head Martian Martino now shouts everyone into his seat and gives us the order of the day. The daily services are held and then this horde moves in its mission of mischief and learning?

Stamelman's Skyrockets

Planet 327 in its orbit
Blasted a rocket away
To senior stratospheres
And graduation day.

But-alas!—by jumpin' Jupiter,
Before our goal was reached,
The space patrols soon squelched us
And in Andromeda we're beached.

Although short-lived
And now no more,
We did have fun,
Happy times galore.

Our shining star now in sight,
Splitting the atom—327—
Never really ended our flight
For now we're truly in heaven.

BRIDGE TO TOMORROW

Classmates and teachers, scholars and dudes,
Hark to a story repeated each year.
Listen to words ever same, always changing
Words that bring mem'ries sad and yet dear.

We speak now of futures, exhalted or humble,
We speak of our dreams, just a footstep away.
We pause on the threshold, life's promise before us,
And memories of school days at work and at play.

Our classes together, our teachers and pals
Too soon will become a part of the past.
And now as we find Commencement Day approaching,
How fondly we wish our school days could last.

A chapter of life, all its joys, all its sorrows
Now draws to an end, leaving school days behind.
So classmates and teachers: farewell for the moment,
Though years may divide us, our memories will bind.

EXCELSIOR

or

Backward We Look But Forward We Go

● ● When most classes enter high school it isn't a world-shaking event. Our Class of January, 1954 entered the Weequahic High School Annex as the United States entered the Korean War. Somehow though, school events went on just normally and as freshmen we watched the mighty seniors produce "The Admirable Crichton." It was in this year, 1950, that the first senior prom was held outside of the school gym, at the Terrace Room. Sis Levine began her literary career as Annex Editor of the Calumet, and Adele Kotler and Sandra Morris began to "strut their stuff" on the twirling squad.

● ● The year 1951 gave an indication of a change to come in our school and country. The first change began in school. The class of January '54 became Sophomores, and our beloved Mr. Herzberg retired and was replaced by Mr. Conovitz. An even more startling change took place this year when, believe it or not, the Weequahic High School Indians took the City Football Championship! Sheldon "Midge" Geller began his football career on this outstanding team. The Schenkel twins and Sis Levine cheered the team on as new members of the twirling squad, as did our cheerleader Flo Kaufman. Later, Roberta Blake joined the twirlers.

● ● In 1952, when the American people elected Dwight D. Eisenhower as their President, we, the Junior class, held our first elections. Herbie Slifer, our President, Asri Strip, the Veep, Helen Schenkel, the Secretary, and Fred Simon, our Treasurer held the reins as we galloped through the gym for our 3A Harvest Hoe Down. Also in this year, many from our ranks became members of the Honor Society. Judy Schenkel served as Secretary of this organization and Asri Strip began campaigning for next year's elections. Weequahic High School won the Swimming Championship of the City for that year, with Marty Lavor leading the team to victory.

● ● 1953!! We're Seniors!! We became the first class ever to elect senior officers for the entire year. Charlie Bernhaut became the President of the Senior Class while the other Junior officers were re-elected for the Senior year. Finally, it came our turn to produce a class play. "A Date With Judy" brought out great dramatic talent in our class. Stars were born and Marv Mayer, Ralph Lowenbach, Steve Schwartz, Judy Slatin, Al Hershdorfer, Lenore Siegel, and Lois Roseman were launched into show-business careers. Dragnet and Red Buttons were the rage of the year when Alan Hershdorfer was elected Sagamore Judge. Asriel Strip's campaigning paid off, and he was elected President of the Honor Society with Judy Schenkel and Sandra Hershbain as Secretaries.

● ● Our Senior hearts were overjoyed that summer of 1953, as peace came to Korea, and many of us welcomed home brothers and boyfriends from the war.

● ● Our 4B Hop, "Evening in Paris," finally came and brought with it the realization that our school days were growing short. A few months later came our Prom, held at the Terrace Room. Sadness was mingled with happiness that evening, as we approached the last month of school. Then that anticipated night arrived. We received our diplomas and bid a sad farewell to our friends of so many years.

● ● Now, grateful to all who have aided us during these four years, and excited at the prospect of things to come, we leave Weequahic High School as students, but with the realization that all our past experiences, as earthshaking as they might have seemed, served only as the groundwork upon which we will construct our post-commencement lives.

SPACE: OUR FUTURE

• • Raise your eyes from the earth and look to the stars. This might very well be the theme of our generation to which the impossible has now become the foreseeable.

• • Travel back down the corridor of time and join our cringing, fearful, ancestor emerging from his cave to gaze in awe at the blazing panorama of sun, moon, and stars spread majestically above him. Feel the thrill and the wonder of the first groping toward knowledge and understanding of that unattainable world. Stand gratefully beside Galileo, Copernicus and Einstein as they chart for us an unlimited future in the vast and unknown stratosphere. Their accomplishments, which we have inherited are at once inspiring and just a little frightening.

• • As our country has progressed in every field of endeavor, so have our scientists striven to conquer the mysteries of the skies. As man has risen from the morass of superstition and ignorance, so has his knowledge of the heavenly bodies and his ever-increasing desire to know yet more kept pace.

• • A generation ago man dreamed of soaring like the birds and he has done so. He envisioned a world of machines and this he has accomplished. Now the great dream has become the released from our earthbound limitations to conquer the heavens. Who is to say that in our lifetime this, too, may not come to pass?

• • In this enlightened civilization, where the greater part of human achievement seems to be directed toward death and destruction, perhaps the salvation of our race, both physical and spiritual, lies in just such an attempt.

• • We who are about to step into this new and promising era have a great challenge confronting us. Alexander the Great cried because there were no new worlds to conquer. We are more fortunate. Untold and undreamed of doors await only the opening. Can we meet this challenge? We think we can.

ON STAGE

As I stood backstage ready to make my entrance, I remembered those first auditions for our 3A-4B play, "A Date With Judy." In the jam-packed auditorium, representatives of both classes were ready to compete for a role. The eliminations lasted many days, and as the crowd dwindled, the tension grew. Finally the day of decision arrived. I shall never forget my feelings when I was told I had been chosen for a part. Nor shall I forget the excitement and great joy experienced by my fellow players. Then came hard work and long hours of rehearsing. Often we trudged home with heavy hearts because our rehearsals were not going as well as we wanted. Then a beam of light, a spark of joy, a ray of hope! No longer were there crude unpolished attempts; instead, we moved closer and closer to perfection.

Then I shall never forget the cast's thrill when our scenery was finished and there appeared before us a beautiful room full of the comforts of home. It was then that we all realized how concrete our efforts had been and how worthwhile. Unlike space, remote, unpredictable, and unmeasurable, this was something which we could see and feel.

And now I return backstage where my thoughts were wandering back to reality, back to my entrance.

The rest is now history. The play turned out a great success. The audience applauded and the cast was content. Soon this audience will forget, but in the hearts of each member of the cast will be the memory of our great experience and our great thrill.

COMMENCEMENT: THE TAKE-OFF

Just like a jet-propelled rocket ship leaving Earth for the unexplored, the Class of January '54 is departing from familiar grounds to pioneer the unknown. The cheering crowds struggle to gain a glimpse of the young explorers as they climb the steps and board the rocket. The door of the ship swings shut and the guards force the anticipating crowd away from the takeoff area. Suddenly the giant vehicle emits a sharp whirring sound; the engines have started! What was previously a wild gleeful shouting mass has now become a hushed group of sharp-eyed spectators. Then without warning, the monstrous metal bird leaps from its spot and swiftly soars sunward, leaving below the breathless people, gaping in wonderment.

As if the onlookers haven't been amazed enough, the giant rocket reaches a sudden stand-still a few hundred feet above the ground. The people stand below, horrified as the giant spaceship shatters high above the earth, with its occupants inside. But then, from within, numerous smaller rockets appear. Eyes popping, mouths open, the people on the field strain their necks to witness the unexplained miracle. Each of the smaller rockets is zooming ahead, each in its own direction. Some go eastwardly, others go westwardly. Some seem destined for the stars and others make a move to the moon. What was once a huge rocket with one definite goal has now become many smaller ones, each with its own destination, each independent of the others. The crowd separates about the field and the people wonder, "What will become of these young pioneers; will we ever see or hear of them?"

Commencement is this sort of takeoff. Though we all start together, we usually end differently, each going our own way, after being together for so many years. We all have our aims and aspirations. Some of us reach our destination whereas others, for unforeseen reasons, do not.

Commencement or takeoff: whether we attain our graduation day goals, whether we make a five-point landing on the moon, all becomes evident only with the passing of time.

TIME CAPSULE

CLASS OF JANUARY, 1954

We, the Class of January, 1954, of Weequahic High School, Newark, New Jersey, being as sound of mind as can be expected after four years of grinding (?) toil, do hereby make, publish and declare these to be our last relics.

To Mr. Conovitz we leave our sincerest thanks and appreciation for his time spent in guiding us.

To the Class of June, 1954 we bequeath the treasured torch, which we hope will be used to light its way to school, early in the morning.

To the Junior Class we leave the thrill of seeing their first "A" assembly, with the realization that it is no different from the "B", save for the dignity and superior manners of the senior group.

To the Freshman we leave the thrill and honor of knowing that some day they too will be SENIORS!

To the Faculty we leave the happiness at our departure.

To the remaining girls we leave our empty booths at the Leslie Sweet Shop.

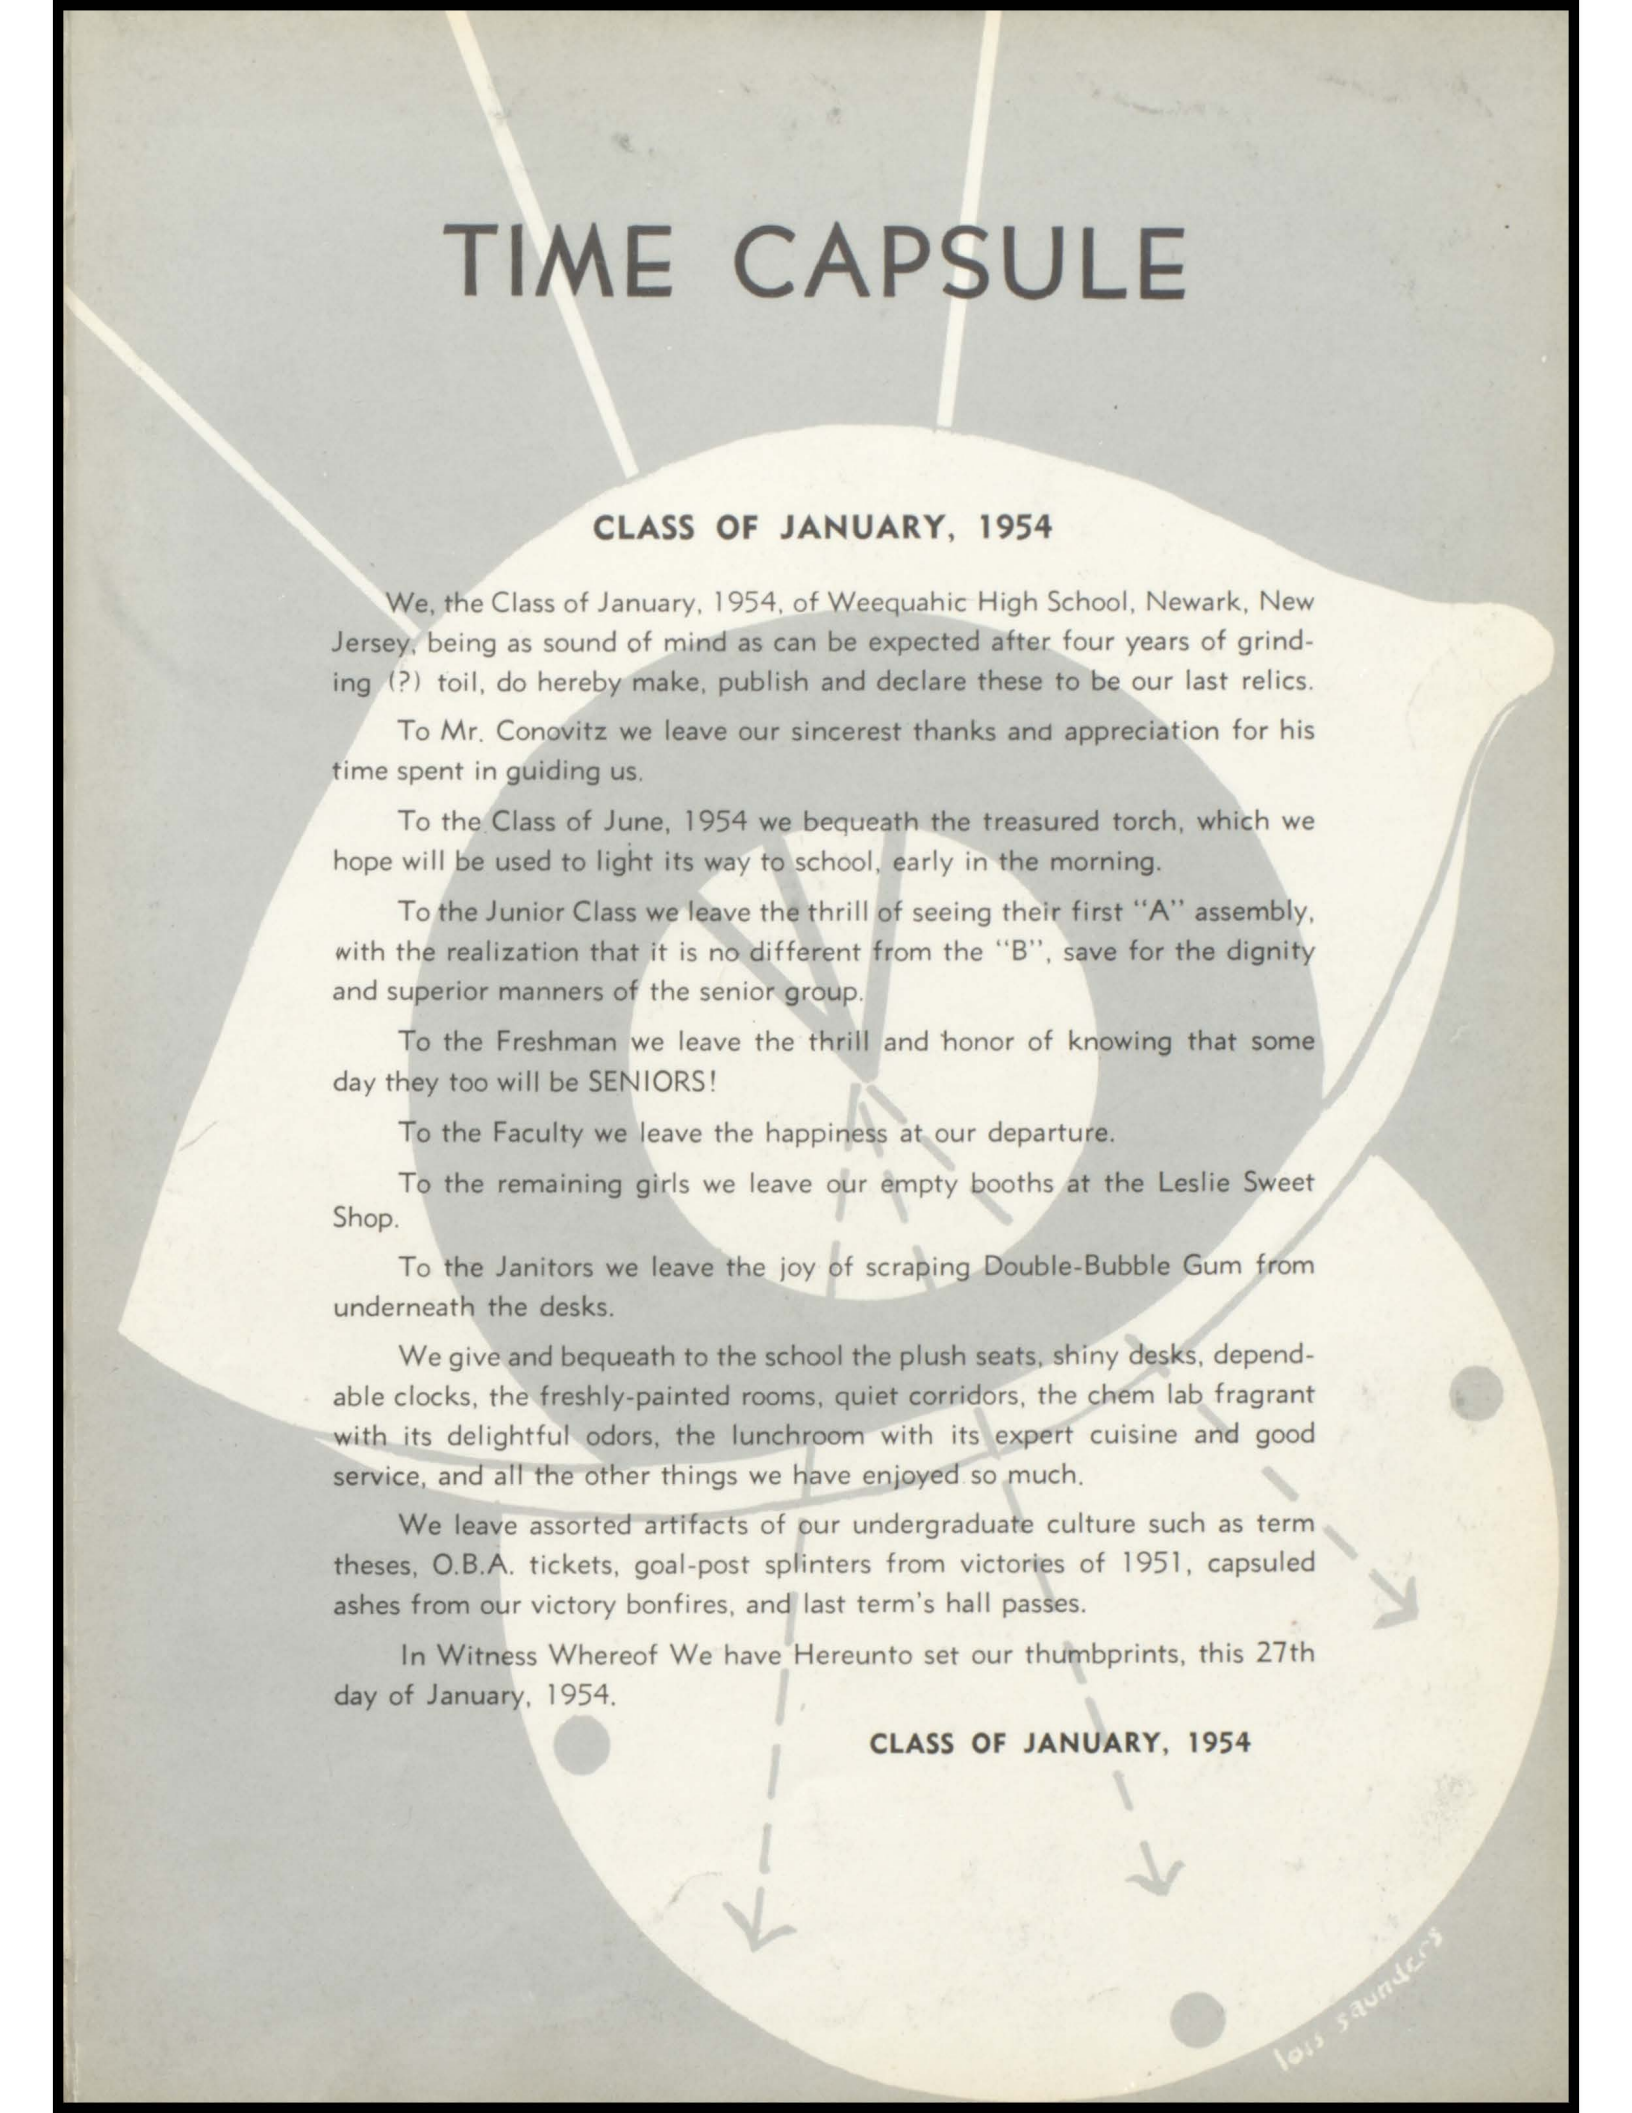

To the Janitors we leave the joy of scraping Double-Bubble Gum from underneath the desks.

We give and bequeath to the school the plush seats, shiny desks, dependable clocks, the freshly-painted rooms, quiet corridors, the chem lab fragrant with its delightful odors, the lunchroom with its expert cuisine and good service, and all the other things we have enjoyed so much.

We leave assorted artifacts of our undergraduate culture such as term theses, O.B.A. tickets, goal-post splinters from victories of 1951, capsuled ashes from our victory bonfires, and last term's hall passes.

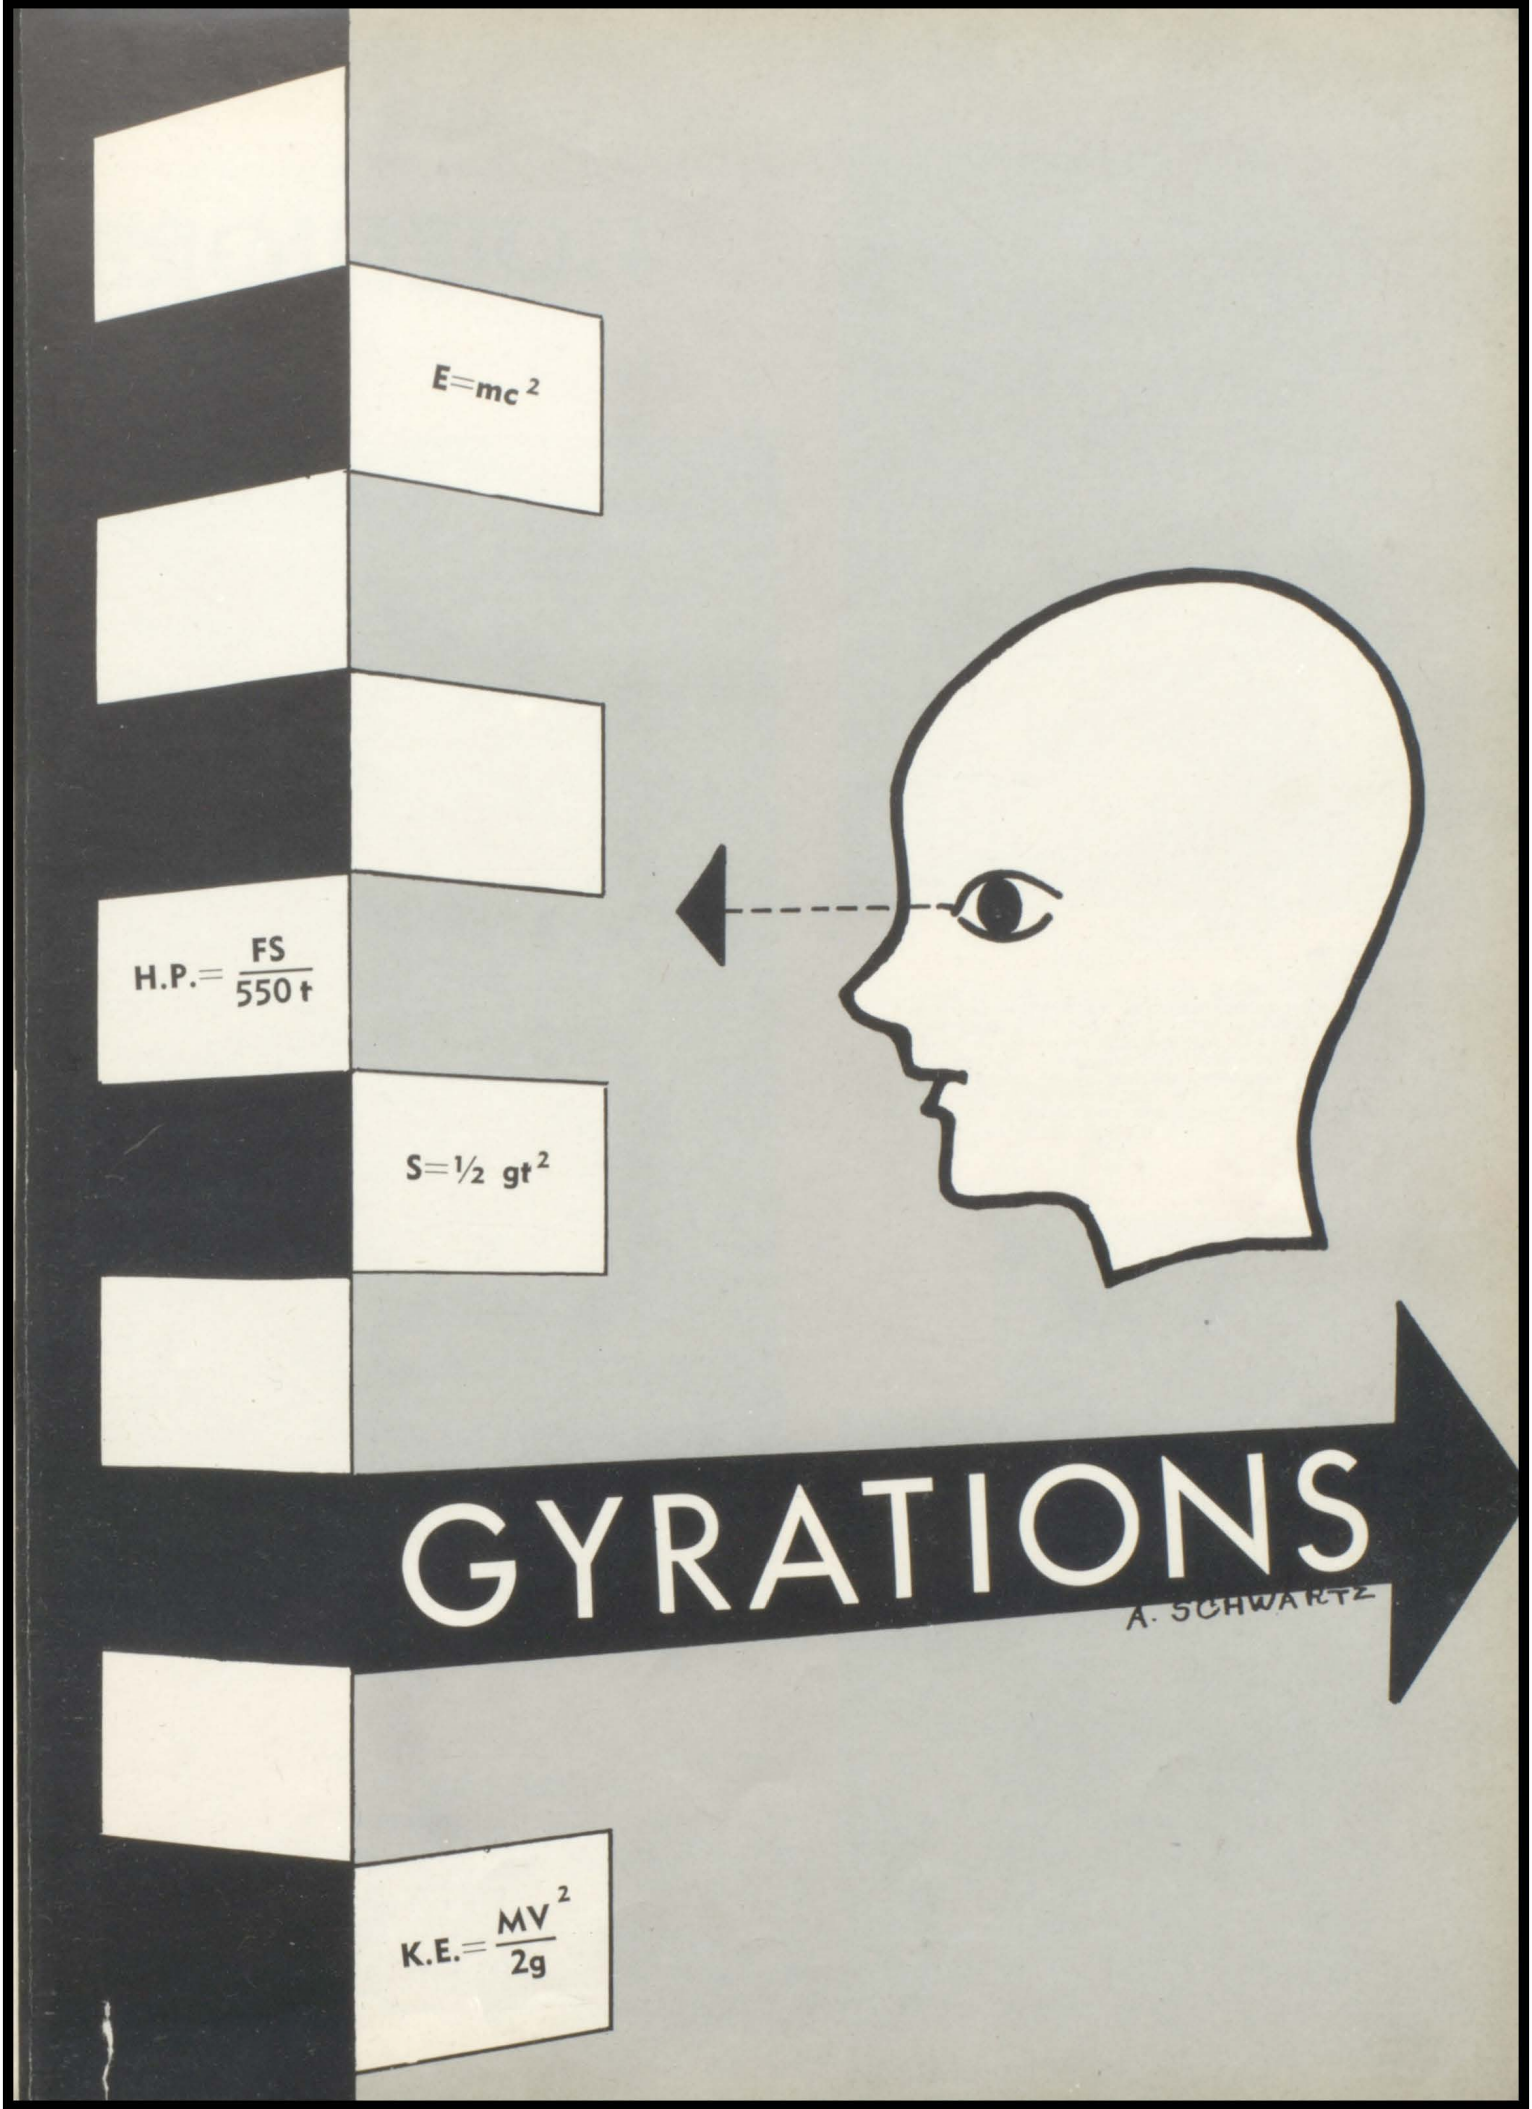

In Witness Whereof We have Hereunto set our thumbprints, this 27th day of January, 1954.

SENIORS

LEONARD CHILL

5' 7" 120 lbs.

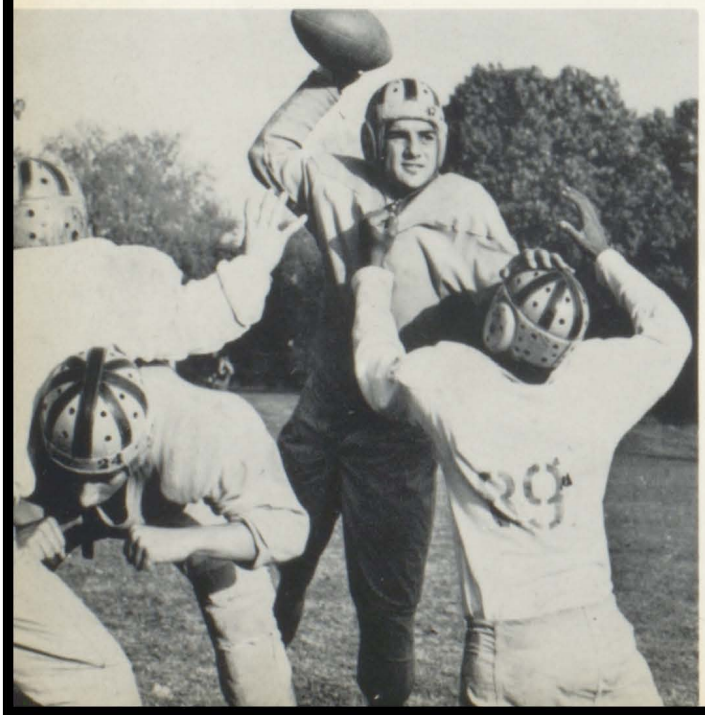

Lenny has collected five medals and scored well over 100 points in his three-year career as competitor in the 100 and 200 yard dashes, and the one-quarter mile. Two of his medals were won at Long Branch last year on the medley relay team. Lenny received one medal in the Seton Hall relays, and two more in city meets. As a freshman, Lenny ran first on the Junior championship 880-yard relay team. He has a fine record in dual meet competition and has received two track letters.

LARRY DINETZ

5' 11" 172 lbs.

As offensive left-end and defensive right-end, Larry has been a valuable asset to Coach Stamelman's eleven for the past three years. In spite of a broken arm sustained last year, Larry has won two W's. In the opening game of the 1953 season, Larry tipped a TD pass into a teammate's hands to help the Orange and Brown compile a sizable lead over South Side. Larry is a glue-fingered pass receiver and a tower of strength on the defense.

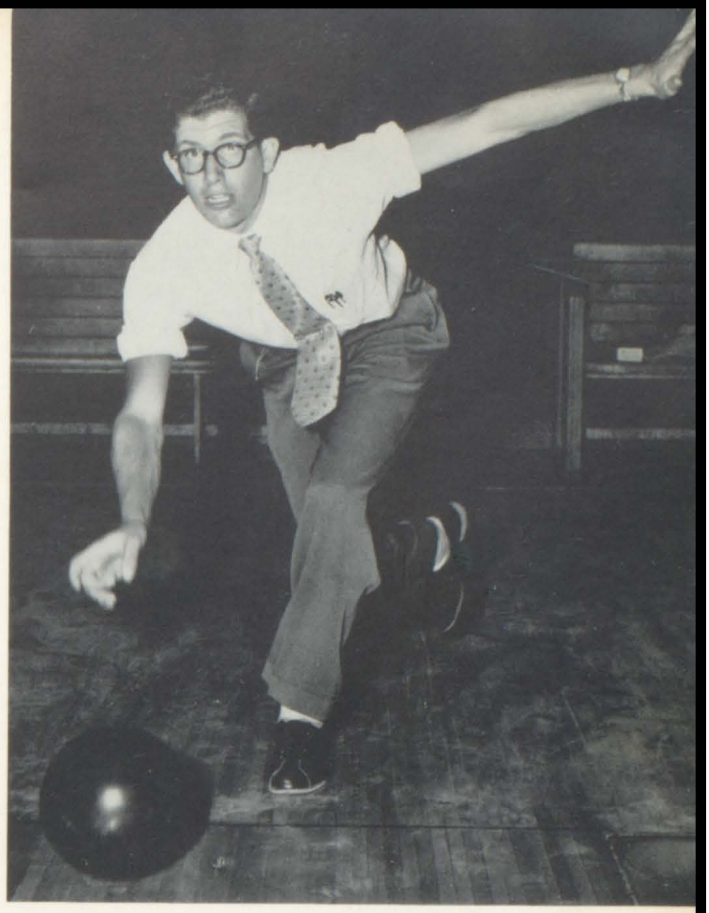

SHELDON GELLER

5' 5" 160 lbs.

Sheldon has been one of our gamest athletes. Hampered by injuries several times in the last two years, he has still carved a name in Weequahic sports. As a freshman he played three sports on frosh and J. V. teams. As a sophomore he earned a baseball letter, playing various infield positions. He also appeared in several football games on our championship team. As a junior he shared the quarterback duties on the varsity football team. This year, unfortunately, he suffered a broken wrist in a practice game, which sidelined him for the season. In the never-to-be-forgotten Turkey Day game, "Midge" returned from inactivity and played a stalwart, brilliant defensive game.

IN MOTION

ASRIEL STRIP

5' 10" 150 lbs.

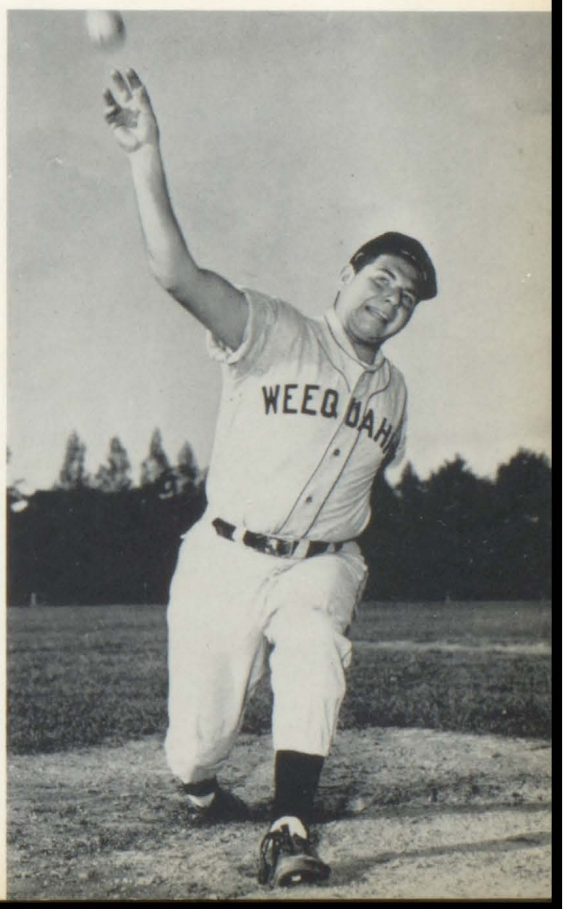

Asri, a co-captain since he joined the team, is a consistent 180 bowler. He is the only kegler on the squad that uses a two-fingered ball. Asri's ability to come through in the clutch has made him a standout anchorman. In a match against East Side, Asri rolled a spare in the last frame to clinch the victory. Through hard work, determination, and persistence, he has attained a high score of 203.

STEVE SCHWARZ

6' 1" 215 lbs.

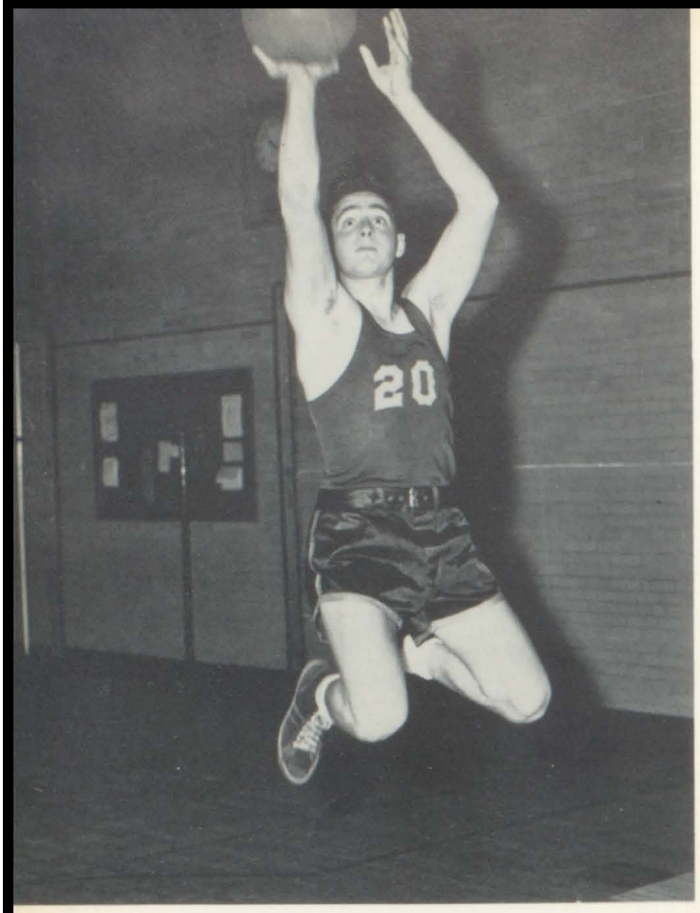

Steve is another member of our class who made the football team as a sophomore. In his junior year he appeared in five games as a tackle. His best game then was the Union game, where on a muddy field he made several valuable tackles and did some great blocking. This year he has played in every quarter, and is one of our best linemen. He has a perfect build for football, being a husky 215-pound 6-footer. Steve played "his best game of his high school career" to quote coach Stamelman, after the Thanksgiving day game. He played an iron-man defense, and figured heavily in our victory over Hillside.

FRED SIMON

5' 7" 170 lbs.

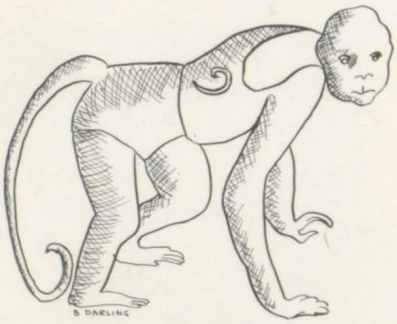

"Freddie the Fireman," Weequahic's answer to Jim Konstanty, has saved many games for us in the late innings. His assortment of curves baffled South Side sluggers for five and one-third innings last year as Freddy won the first game he started. In an earlier game, after giving up a triple to a Thomas Jefferson all-stater, Fred struck out six of the next nine men he faced. Altogether, Freddie appeared in five games, winning one, losing none. To keep in shape during the off-season, he is a football lineman too. Freddy participated in our final game of the season, as Weequahic defeated Hillside for the first time in eighteen years.

BERNIE SLAMOWITZ

5′ 9½″ 155 lbs.

Bernie is a two-sport athlete, one of the few in our class. As a freshman he joined the basketball team and played on the freshman team. He hit his stride as a junior when he was one of the top scorers on the team. His best game was against Seton Hall, when he was high scorer. He has also been a valuable track man. He has been on winning relay teams and placed on high-jump events in city meets. His track career was halted, however, when he suffered a serious injury.

JOE BRAND

5′ 9″ 160 lbs.

Joey's aggressive, fearless play made him a varsity offensive guard and defensive line-backer his first year out. The team counts heavily on Joey to hold up the left side of the wall, and his all-out, go-get-'em style of play makes him the man for the job. He is a hard worker and, though small, he refuses to be stopped by enemy linemen. In our sensational victory over Hillside, Joey sparked the line, making numerous tackles on defense, and opening holes in the opposition's wall on offense.

MARTY LAVOR

5′ 6″ 150 lbs.

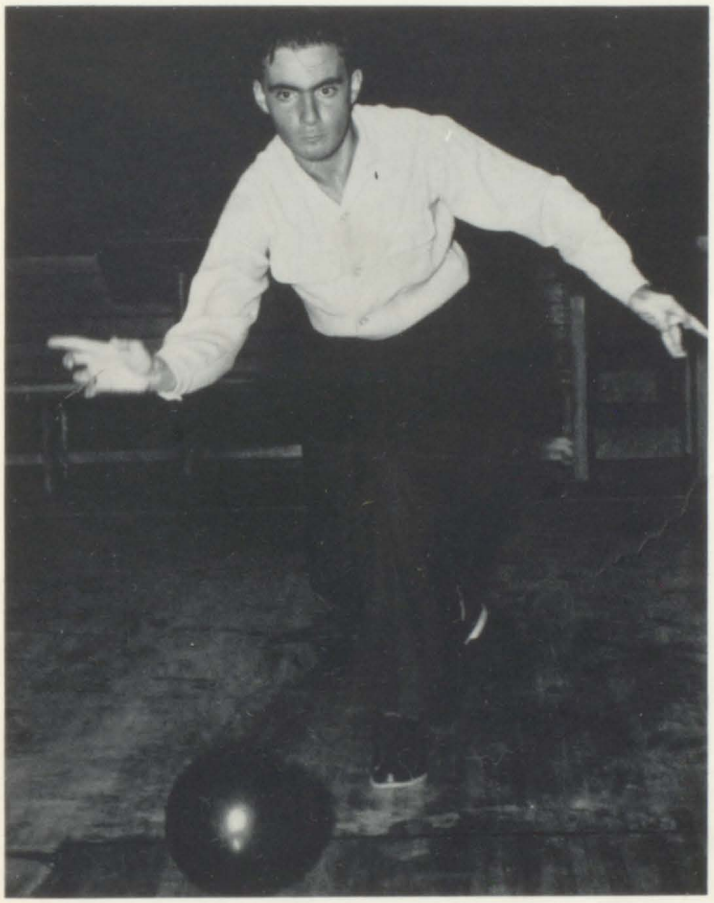

Marty, co-captain of the swimming team, has been all-city for the past three years. Since he came to Weequahic, Marty has been breaking records. He holds six school records, one pool record, and one city record. He has scored more points than any other Indian tankman. He broke Ian Rosenstrauch's record for points scored in a single season. In 1952, as the anchor man, Marty helped us break the city record in the medley relay. Marty has won forty-four of the fifty-two events he has entered. In the 1951 city meet, Marty personally accounted for two of our five victories in the eight-event meet, from which Weequahic emerged victorious.

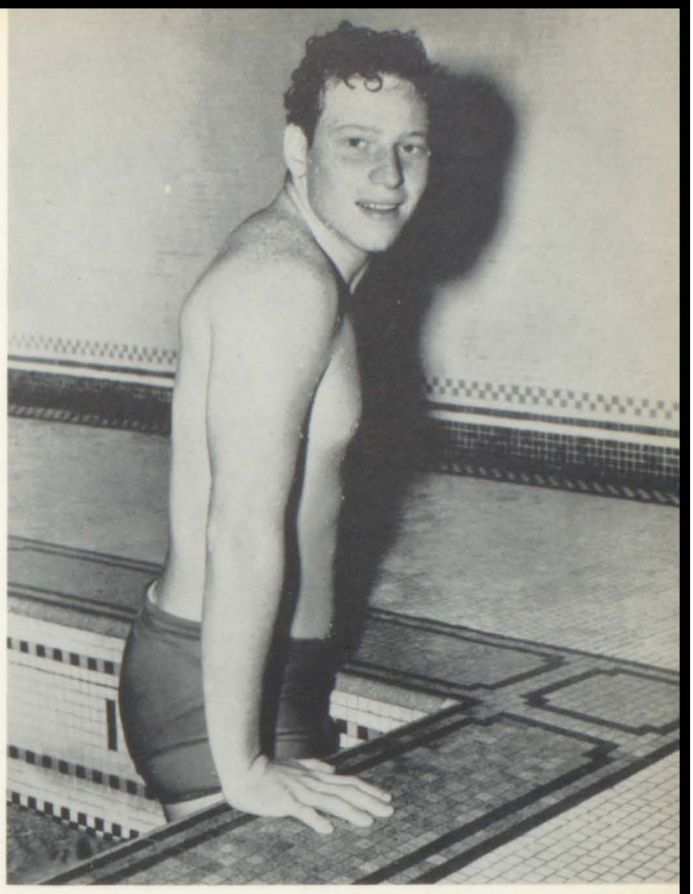

RALPH LOWENBACH

5' 9" 160 lbs.

Ralph, co-captain of our bowling team, has helped win many matches over the past two years. His capable and consistent bowling has made him one of our top Keglers. As a sophomore he averaged 125, but through continued effort and practice, he now bowls well above 160, and has a high game of 219. He is a leader scholastically as well as athletically.

LARRY MANDELL

5' 9" 170 lbs.

Larry has been a member of the swimming team since his sophomore year, competing in the 100-yard freestyle and relay events. He has added many important points in crucial meets. Larry is a steady performer and was instrumental to the team in its drive for a city championship in 1951. Larry's greatest aquatic achievement was against East Side last year, when he was a double winner.

JERRY SHUMSKY

5' 10" 175 lbs.

Jerry joined the football team as a sophomore, and showed enough to Coach Stamelman to be figured highly in Weeguahic's plans in 1952. After appearing in one game against South Side, he was sidelined by a serious hip injury. He has recovered quickly, however, and is now the starting fullback on the team. In the first game this year he intercepted a pass and scooted for a touchdown. In his last game, Thanksgiving Day, Jerry starred both on offense and defense, setting up one of our touchdowns with an interception, and scoring on a pass, he led our team to victory.
